Welcome to the latest Iain James brochure, and thank you for your interest in our furniture.

When we started Iain James Furniture nearly 35 years ago, the market was a sea of UK cabinet makers producing furniture across various regions, including Norfolk, Suffolk, Essex, the East End of London, Brighton, Oxfordshire, Ayrshire, and Edinburgh, to name just a few.

Over the years, many of these companies have ceased trading, unable to compete with furniture imported from China and Asia, along with a rapidly changing marketplace. Containers of imported furniture began arriving in bulk – and unfortunately continue to do so.

Retail showrooms, once filled with a wide array of UK-made products, now feature limited space for traditional, handcrafted furniture.

Iain James is proud to be one of the few remaining UK manufacturers of classic English-styled furniture. With the skills required for this craft becoming increasingly rare, our work is now more akin to that of artisans, reflecting the true craftsmanship that has almost vanished.

The subtlety of our designs offers timeless elegance, with many of our pieces available in bespoke sizes and a choice of finishes to suit your requirements.

Our furniture is available through a wide range of stockists and interior designers across the UK and Ireland.

You are also welcome to visit our showroom at our Long Eaton premises, where we offer a large selection of furniture, which is available to view on an appointment basis to ensure you get the most from your visit to us.

At the back of this brochure, you will find useful advice on caring for your furniture, information on our finishes, as well as details on timber and furniture characteristics.

Once again, thank you for your interest in Iain James furniture. We hope you enjoy browsing the contents of this brochure.

OUR FINISHES

MAHOGANY

Our soft Mahogany finish gives a timeless warm feel and an overall classical appearance. We bleach out the extreme red tones and polish to a softer antique tone giving a greater depth of colour adding interest to the furniture.

BURR WALNUT

Burr Walnut is a highly desirable exotic timber that displays a unique structure which means no two pieces are the same. The decorative 'burr' is a result of stress or disease at the base of the tree. We polish to a neutral mid tone shade making it extremely versatile for placing in most décor as it works with all colours.

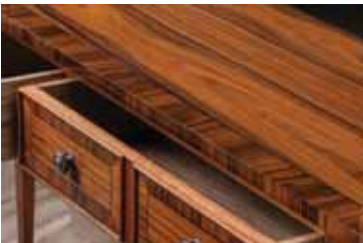

BURR OAK

In a time where the market is swamped by imported Oak ranges, our Burr Oak finish provides refreshing elegance by way of its golden tones, subtle shading and 'pippy'/'burr' detailing.

TAMO ASH

This variation of Ash is called 'Tamo' and hails from Japan. It has an exceptional shimmering grain, almost 3D in its effect, rarely seen in UK interiors.

ROSEWOOD

The prominent contrasting decorative grain gives our Rosewood collection a striking contemporary twist with its elegant distinctive appearance.

EBONY

A stronger, deeper effect than Rosewood, reminiscent of the Art Deco movement in the 1920s. The strong linear appearance makes for a decorative contemporary effect.

YEW

Another reproduction furniture favourite. Yewtree is very popular in classical furniture and its golden tones are often seen as a lighter alternative to Mahogany.

BURR POPLAR

An attractive burr, often featuring a quilted grain effect providing a lovely, contrast to decorative clusters of burr.

BURR ELM

Elm is another timber scarcely seen in UK interiors. During the polishing process we bleach this decorative Burr to create a golden patina, bringing the out the beauty of both the burr and surrounding swirling grain.

PAINT

Paint finishes can be specified to complement branded paint colours. For further information please contact your retailer or interior designer

OUR FINISH & FINISHING LINES

All of our products are finished using time honoured traditional hand polishing methods which create a fine patina and depth of colour and can take as long as a week to polish.

The furniture is often bleached to help achieve a lighter, softer shade often associated with antiques, before being hand coloured, shaded, distressed and polished. These processes involve splashes and scratch marks designed to enhance the final finish. Unless otherwise instructed, the product finish exhibits antiquing and distressing techniques.

The process is completed by carefully dulling the finish using 0000 wire wool before being waxed.

Finishing lines, which are visible in critical light, are testament to the hand application work undertaken during the many stages of polishing, as opposed to ‘off the gun’ finishes, and are not in any way a finishing defect. Waxing and natural oxidization will reduce these features over time.

The finish of our products may feature small knots, marks and cracks which are natural characteristics of wood.

UNDERSTANDING TIMBER

Our construction is a mixture of solid wood and veneers where applicable.

Due to the natural properties of wood, expansion, shrinkage or movement may occur at any time.

It's important to realise that although the timber is no longer part of the tree, it is always trying to return to its natural shape,

Similarly, the way the wood would respond to humid and dry environments externally is also relevant to the modern-day internal surroundings. Central heating in particular reduces the moisture levels in the atmosphere and may encourage join or veneer movement as may other fluctuations in temperature.

Certain decorative hardwood timbers when laid as veneers can exhibit natural movement which may become apparent in the future, for which no responsibility can be accepted.

Iain James can offer a restoration service to help remedy any such movement, however, the non-return of movement cannot be guaranteed.

WAXING YOUR FURNITURE

Frequently dust your furniture with a dry, soft duster and occasionally wax using a high-quality beeswax-based polish; twice a year is usually plenty, depending on how much wear the piece gets. Waxing will nourish the wood and help to prevent the surface of the wood from drying.

During application, the wax should be applied to a manageable sized area and the excess quickly wiped off with a clean cloth. Whilst removing the excess wax, it is important that the cloth in use is clean so that the excess is not dragged around the surface and leaving streaks.

As a tip, keep folding the cloth over or use an additional clean cloth to help achieve this.

The wax should always be removed in the same direction as the original polish was applied. This can be seen by looking closely at the patina where fine finishing lines will display the direction of application.

If applying Harrells or Liberon wax, which we use, please ignore the instructions to leave the wax to dry, otherwise it will be difficult to remove.

Avoid using any spray polishes containing silicone which can wear through the patina.

ADDITIONAL CARE AND INFORMATION

Any spillage should be immediately removed with a damp cloth and subsequently dried.

Avoid placing hot objects on to the furniture as they may mark the finish.

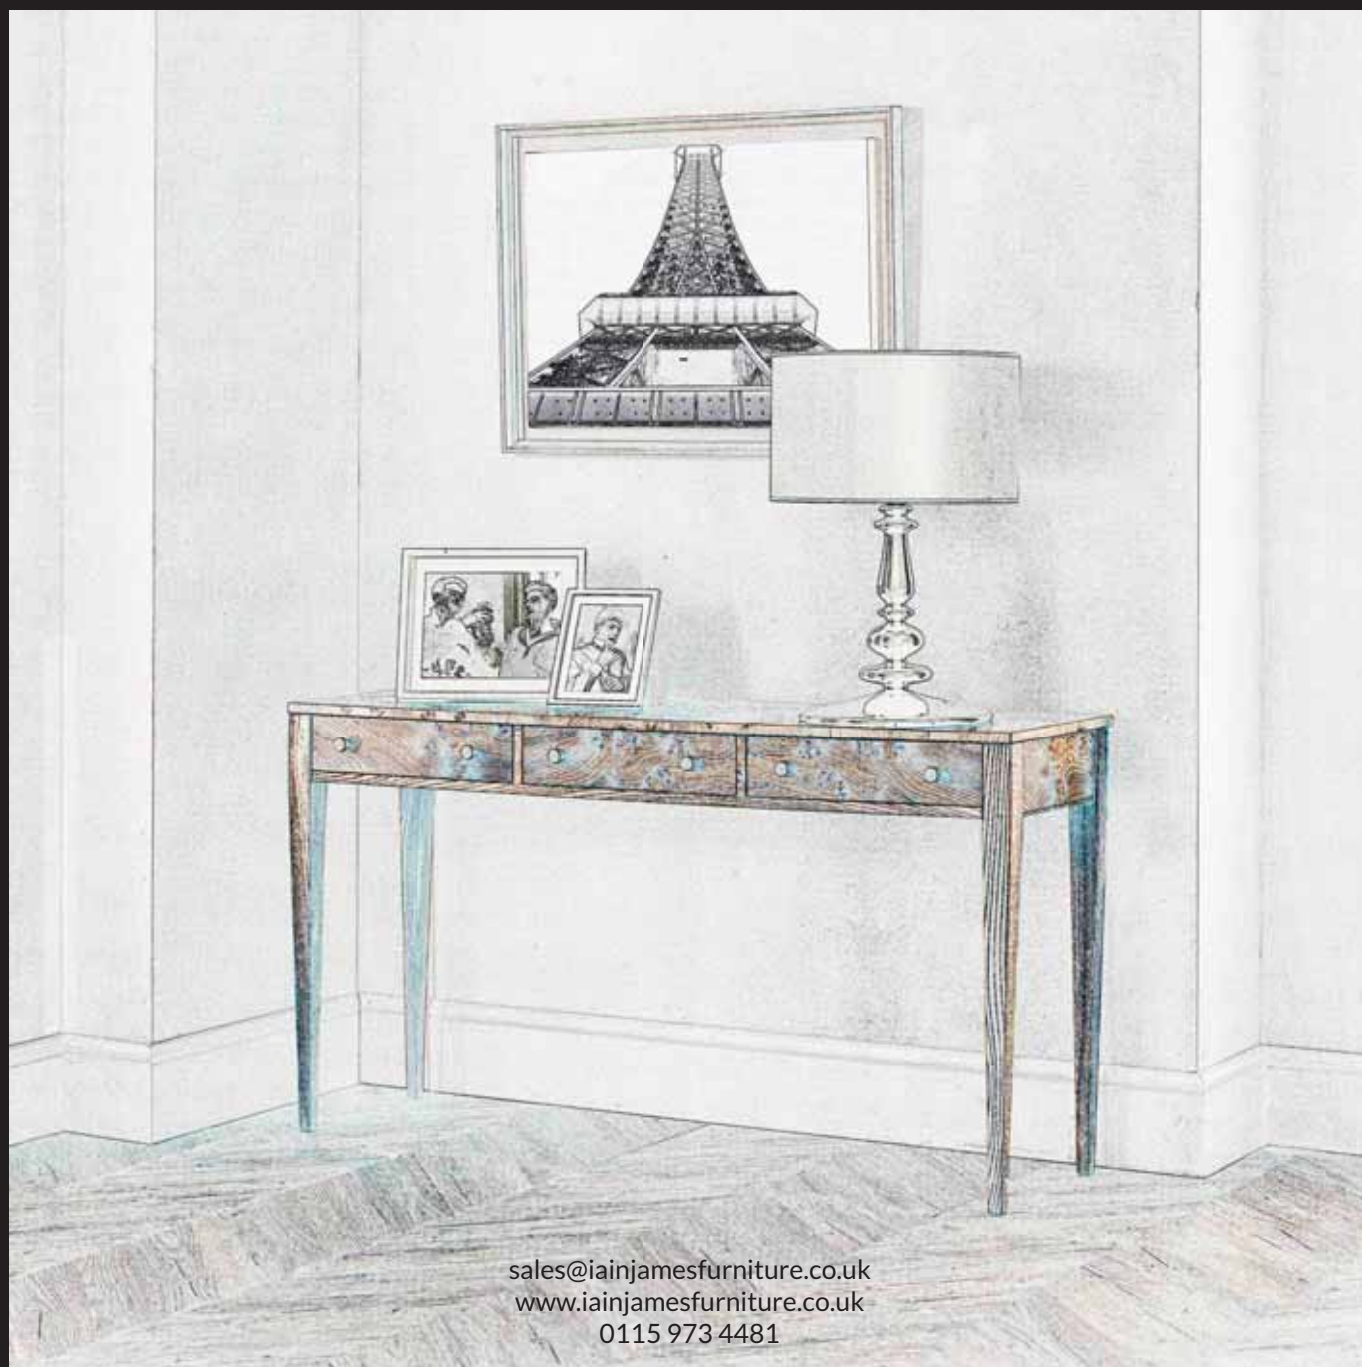

Try to avoid keeping furniture in strong sunlight, as this can affect the colour of the piece and may also result in the movement of veneers and timbers.

The terms ‘Mahogany’ or ‘Walnut’ etc. relate to the finish and does not mean the product is entirely made of that material.

All furniture is handmade and may vary slightly to the dimensions given.

We reserve the right to alter or delete any items. All errors and omissions excepted.
